Summer in Colorado vs. summer in Nebraska. Tracy Voegeli, Dept. 704 (top photo), opens a thermos of hot coffee as Jamie Spanel (r.) positions himself under an overhanging boulder to avoid the sleet during the Long's Peak climb on August 3.

At approximately the same time, Dar Miller, Dept. 593, finds the Omaha weather just fine as she caddies for her husband, Mike, during a Weoma Club golf league match. Mike watches as Joe Opryszko, Dept. 584, lines up a 15-foot putt.

2nd Shift Bowling Teams

Now Being Formed for Fall

The Weoma Club Nite Owls Mixed League starts September 4 (after work). The teams consist of three bowlers, any combination of men and women.

A meeting will be held August 28 after work at the Western Bowl, 132nd & L Streets. Teams and individuals are welcome. The league will not accept any new teams after September 4.

Those having questions concerning the league can contact Sandy Barnes on extension 3528 or Steve O'Dell, extension 3603.

LOTTO BULL CONTEST

There was no winner for the second week of August in the LOTTO BULL SAFETY AWARENESS CONTEST. The question was, "How many days does it take to get used to unusual heat?" The answer: four to seven days.

Be sure to read the August Fact Sheet available at all plant entrances and remember --- the bonus question is based on the safety film shown at your last month's departmental safety meeting!

The question for the third week in August (week of the 19th) will be worth $200.00 and the bonus will be worth $100 for a total of $300. worth of Westroads gift certificates.

READ THE AUGUST FACT SHEET!!!

Weoma Softball Players Finish 1991 Season

Fourteen weeks of softball has ended for three Weoma Club teams participating in the Omaha softball league.

The team called "Sluggo's" from the Omaha Works finished in second place with a 10-4 win-loss record while Phil Filarecki's Local Yocals played .500 ball with a 7-7 final record. Balls and Strokes also closed with 7 wins and 7 losses.

Sluggo's pounded Chuggers 10-0 in the final game and the Local Yocals hammered Super Auto, 14-2 to end the season. Tom Book, Ozzie Filarecki and Dave Boyer each homered to fuel the blowout.

Balls & Strokes went down to the wire against Pipeline but was on the short end of a final score of 10-9.

Toastmasters

The Toastmaster Club contest will be held on August 22 at 4:05 p.m. in the Pioneer Meeting room located in the Employees Activity Mall.

The speakers for the speech contest will be: Jerry Golmanavich, Steve Miller and Ann Young. The Evaluator contest will have two evaluators: Bob Beardsley and Evelyn Dawson.

One of from each contest will go to the Area Contest. Members and guests are welcome to attend and select the best to represent the Weoma Toastmasters at the Area Contest.

Corporate Cup Update

Omaha Works Corporate Cup Run coordinator, Judy Stroy, says there have been many employees who have signed up for the September 15 event but that even more are wanted to fill the AT&T team. She urges everyone to sign-up along with their spouses and friends for the 8:15 a.m. start at Civic Auditorium.

Volunteers are still needed to help work for the Lung Association. Stroy asks those who feel they cannot participate in the Run/Walk to offer their services as volunteers.

Entry forms are available at all entry doors and in the cafeteria. Please return them to Judy Stroy, Dept. 532. If forms are not available, call Judy at x3602 or John Maun, x3504.

Pledge sheets for those who have signed-up will be mailed this week. You are not required to get pledges but doing so helps create more funding for Lung Association programs like Camp Superkids, a week long camp for asthmatics.

Buy a Book!

Treat yourself, your family and friends to outstanding college sports entertainment by purchasing a UNO Athletic Ticket Book for only $25. The book contains 15 adult tickets (for a value of $75.00) and/or 30 student tickets, K-12 (for a value of $90.00).

Tickets will admit you to football, volleyball, basketball (men and women), wrestling and softball events. In addition to enjoying yourself, you will also be supporting the UNO athletic programs.

Tickets and passes are not good for North Central Conference & NCAA Tournament.

Test Your Garbage I.Q.

By J. Winston Porter

It's time for a test. Earth Day 1990 began a groundswell of support for the environment, especially recycling and better solid waste management. But with all the hype about "green labels" and "green consumers," how much have we really learned?

Most of us try to buy products and support community initiatives that will have the least impact on the environment. But good intentions are no substitute for facts. Here then, is a little quiz to test your garbage I.Q. and perhaps clear up some of the popular myths:

1. Recycling is still a small scale activity.

False: Recycling is big business, with assembly-line style factories and about 1,500 curbside separation programs nationwide. The latest figures show that Americans recycled 13 percent of their trash in 1988, up from 10 percent in 1986, an increase of over 30 percent in two years. In 1988, the Environmental Protection Agency set a national goal of 25 percent recycling by 1992 and it appears now that we may come close to that.

2. Plastic products are a serious problem in solid waste management.

False: Plastics do not decompose, and therefore pose little threat to groundwater when buried in a landfill. Plastics can be recycled. Proctor and Gamble, for example, now includes recycled plastics in millions of its containers. Plastics also make excellent fuel for waste-to-energy plants, with up to twice the heat value of coal. Overall plastics make up only about nine percent (by weight) of all solid waste, a relatively small percentage compared to paper (34 percent) and yard wastes (20 percent).

3. Aluminum cans have the highest recycling component rate of any single solid waste component.

True: Aluminum cans are the leader with 60 percent recycled. However, paper leads in total tons recycled—18.4 million tons—compared to 0.8 million tons of recycled aluminum per year.

4. Garbage is a dirty fuel.

False: In modern waste-to-energy plants, garbage can be burned to produce steam and electricity more cleanly than, say, coal (based on the most common measures of air pollution such as the "acid rain" emissions (sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides). Since electricity from waste-to-energy plants often replaces coal, the result is often a net decrease in air pollution.

5. Biodegradable products will greatly extend the lives of our landfills.

False: Modern landfills are tightly sealed to prevent groundwater contamination, so the air and water needed for biodegradation are not available. Still, biodegradability may help to protect wildlife if the product commonly appears in litter (for example, six-pack rings, which can injure birds).

6. We are running out of landfills.

True: About half of the nation's 6,000 landfills may close in the next 10 years. However, this is not due to a shortage of land, but to the inability to overcome community resistance to new landfills.

7. Paper packaging is almost always better for the environment than plastic.

False: No blanket rule exists. Is it better to make paper from trees or plastics from petrochemicals? Plastic and paper packaging are actually quite competitive when you consider overall resources and energy use, recyclability, water use, weight and disposal volume.

8. One of the largest exports from New York harbor is waste paper.

True: We send large amounts of corrugated and other paper abroad for recycling, particularly to the Far East.

9. Newspapers are the most commonly recycled paper product.

False: We now recycle about 35 percent of old newspapers, but over 50 percent of corrugated cardboard. For value, however, white office paper usually brings the best price (over $100 per ton). Overall, the paper industry has pledged to increase recycling from 25 percent today to 40 percent by 1995.

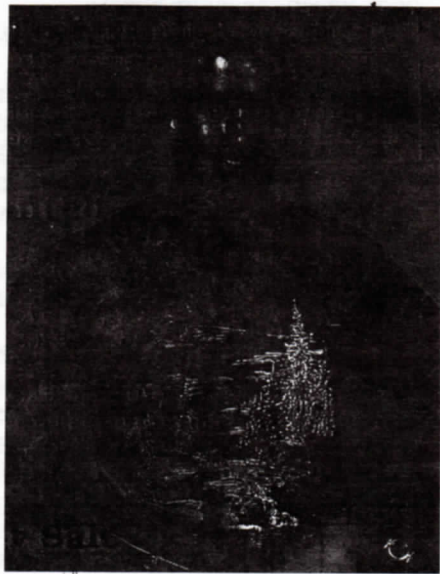

10. Because of our throwaway mentality, the United States produces more food wastes than most developing countries.

False: Due largely to our often-maligned packaging, U.S. food wastes are only about nine percent of our garbage. In most developing countries food wastes are over 50 percent.

Perhaps the largest misconception of all is that we can (and should) recycle everything possible. Reasonable recycling rates are useful from both environmental and energy conservation viewpoints. However, spending huge sums to achieve heroic recycling rates does not help society or the environment. We have other environmental priorities too. ■
