National Quality Month Promoted at Omaha Works

A squad of Millard North High School varsity cheerleaders were at the Omaha Works on October 12 and 13 promoting National Quality Month and SPC (Super Prize Contest/Statistical Process Control).

The squad stopped at pre-selected areas of the shops for five to ten minutes each to perform a set of "AT&T Quality Cheers." The students are the defending National Cheerleading champions. They worked up a repertoire of "Quality" cheers for their Omaha Works visit. Gary Scott, Department 571, was the Master of Ceremonies.

Employees have an opportunity to participate in the Super Prize Contest. SPC is a term used to describe a series of statistical techniques which, among other things, can be used to generally improve the control of manufacturing processes.

The contest entry forms can be located in the Employees Activities Mall or tables/racks in the various cafeterias. Contact the "SPC Hotline" on extension 3882 if you have questions regarding the contest or SPC.

All entries must be received by October 31. Prizes will be awarded during the week of November 6-10. Prize winners will also be posted in the cafeterias.

Other Quality Month activities will be held during October. Flags will be flying, posters will be hung, booklets will be distributed and exhibits concerning SPC and quality related activities around the Omaha Works will be shown.

Auto Rallye Wrap-Up

The top three places in each route went to: (Route A) Don and Barb Lanspa; John and Marie Okupski; and John and Rosemary Francavilla. (Route B) Kevin Pluta and D. Oehlertz; Harry and Joan Jon; and Thelma Cronin and Neil Weed.

"The Increase and Diffusion of Knowledge"

IN September, 1838, there arrived in Philadelphia from England a shipment of gold sovereigns which, when reminted into coin of the United States, amounted to $508,000. It was in payment of a legacy under the will of James Smithson "to the United States of America, to found at Washington, under the name of the Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

The gift was formally accepted and the

Form a Habit

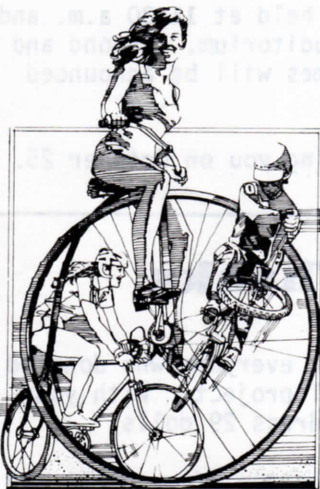

A working smoke detector can help double your chances of surviving a home fire. But, an estimated fifty percent of home smoke detectors are not working because of old or missing batteries.

To help you remember to change your smoke detector and flashlight batteries, we suggest you make a habit of changing the batteries when you turn your clocks back in the fall. This Sunday, start a new habit that could help save your life. When you change your clocks, change the batteries in your smoke detectors and flashlights, too.

- * Help for beginning riders on bicycle selection and equipment.
- * Maintenance and repair classes.
- * Nominal dues.

“The Increase and Diffusion of Knowledge”

establishment created, under the name provided for in the will, by an act of Congress passed in 1846. Not only in the research which it has carried on of its own accord has the Smithsonian Institution fulfilled the purpose of its founder. Not less importantly has it contributed to “the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men” by inspiring others to experimentation and research, and assisting them in it.

Two words, spoken by Joseph Henry first Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, to Alexander Graham Bell were largely responsible for the latter’s continuation of the experiments which led to the invention of the telephone. The young Bell, well nigh disheartened by the discouragements he faced, had sought the advice of the wise and kindly Henry as to whether to publish his theory of the transmission of the voice by electricity, or to attempt to solve the problem himself. When the great scientist had advised the latter course, Bell had objected that he “had not the electrical knowledge necessary to overcome the difficulties.” Henry’s laconic answer was “Get it!”

The debt which the telephone thus indirectly owes to the Smithsonian Institution it is repaying by serving the world as an instrumentality for the interchange of thought and opinion and for “the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men.”

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Please join us for an Open Forum on breast cancer. The forum will be presented by The Cancer Center of Creighton University. All employees are invited to attend. Those who do attend should attend the program either during their lunch break or after their shift. No one should attend during their working hours, only at break.

Bring a brown bag lunch with you and take 20-30 minutes of your time to learn some life-saving facts and techniques about breast cancer.

The following information will be available:

- * Information about breast cancer and risk factor identification.
- * Proper breast self-exam technique.
- * Models to practice exam technique.
- * What mammograms look like and how they are performed.

The Forum will be held on October 25. First shift presentations will be held at 11:30 a.m. and at 12 o'clock noon in the auditorium. Second and third shift presentation times will be announced based on registration.

We look forward to seeing you on October 25.
